Intellectual Property Rights

Unless otherwise specified, all information on this Website (including photos, logos, layout, audio(visual) content, text, animations, graphic design and look&feel) and (each element of) the Website itself (including source codes and software) (collectively referred to hereafter as "Content") is the exclusive material and intellectual property of SK Auctions. Every use (including modifications, reproductions, sales, rentals and public communications) of the Content is subject to the prior, express written consent of SK Auctions.

Certain Content involves protected trademarks, registered trademarks or otherwise registered designs. This Content also cannot be used without express written consent.

The personal information that you transfer during your use of the Website (e.g. whilst sending messages to SK Auction) is processed by SK Auctions via a select number of specialized staff. This information will only be used to send you personal messages and newsletters, which are always provided with the possibility to 'unsubscribe'. Your details will not be passed on to third parties. However, as part of fraud prevention or legal/other proceedings this information may possibly be shared with the relevant authorities and/or specialized companies, who will not use this information for marketing purposes.

During a visit to the Website, so-called 'cookies' may automatically be stored on the hard disk of your computer, which allow us to tailor the Website to visitor wishes and preferences (e.g. remembering your language preferences so that you don't have to choose it every time you use the Website). If you agree to the use of cookies during one visit to the Website, then these cookies can be used during future visits to these pages. On most Internet browsers you can remove cookies from your hard disk, dismiss cookies or receive a notification before a cookie is installed. Consult your internet browser's instructions or help function for more details. If you do not (or no longer) agree to the use of cookies then certain parts of the Website may not or may only partially be accessible.

In addition, it is not excluded that SK Auctions may use so-called 'tracking technology' in order to collect details, amongst others, regarding the domain name of the Website from which a visitor has arrived at the Website and that of the site to which they switch. This allows traffic to and from the Website to be analysed, as well as the profile of the users of this Website.

You have the right to access and correct your personal details, as well as the right to freely object to the processing of your details for the sending of newsletters and/or personal messages. You can send SK Auctions an access, correction or objection request via email to info@suuskuytenauctions.com.
